History

Major League Baseball's annual First-Year Player Draft began in June, 1965. The purpose of the draft is to assign amateur baseball players to major league teams. The draft order is determined based on the previous season's standings, with the team possessing the worst record receiving the first pick. Eligible amateur players include graduated high school players who have not attended college, any junior or community college players, and players at four-year colleges and universities three years after first enrolling or after their 21st birthdays (whichever occurs first). From 1966-1986, a January draft was held in addition to the June draft targeting high school players who graduated in the winter, junior college players, and players who had dropped out of four-year colleges and universities. Since 2021, the draft has been held in July in conjunction with the annual Major League Baseball All-Star Game.

To date, there have been 1,217 Maryland players selected in the First-Year Player Drafts either from a Maryland High School (335), Non-Maryland High School (4), Maryland College (474), Non-Maryland College (382), or a Maryland amateur baseball club (22). The most Maryland selections in a year was in 1970 (38) followed by 1984 (37) and 1983 (36). The 2020 draft was limited to five rounds and there were no Maryland selections. The first Maryland selection was Jim Spencer from Andover High School with the 11th overall selection in the inaugural 1965 June draft. He is one of 97 Maryland drafted players who have played in the majors. Two of those, Cal Ripken, Jr. and Harold Baines, have been inducted into the National Baseball Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, NY. Harold Baines, who was the first overall pick in the 1977 June draft out of St. Michaels High School, is also the highest Maryland selection.

Each of the 30 current major league franchises have made Maryland selections with the Baltimore Orioles making the most, followed by the Pittsburgh Pirates, and the Texas Rangers/Washington Senators. The Maryland draft selections by team franchise are as follows:

Angels – 42	Giants – 35	Rangers/Senators – 84
